

ABSTRACT

An applicator including a handle and associated barrel portion which may contain a plurality of surgical clips which may be induced along the barrel portion and sequentially fed to an operating end while the clips may be closed by pressure exerted by movement of an inner member of the barrel portion against an outermember is disclosed.